

Visa requirements

Whether or not you need a visa for Morocco depends on your nationality. Citizens of several countries are exempt from Morocco visa requirements – which means they can travel to Morocco without having to obtain a visa beforehand.

In order to enter Morocco, a visitor must have the following:

A valid passport with 6 or more months before expiration.

Must have at least one blank page for the entry stamp

A return-flight ticket which is within the next 90 days

The visa fees for Morocco are as follows:

For a single entry (up to 90 days): DH220 (approx. $23 / €21)

For two entries (up to 90 days): DH330 (approx. $34 / €31)

Visa not required

If you are from one of the following countries, you do not need a visa for Morocco for stays of up to 90 days (except the ones otherwise specified):

Algeria	Indonesia	Philippines
Andorra	Ivory Coast	Qatar
Argentina	Japan	Russia
Australia	Kuwait	San Marino
Bahrain	Liechtenstein	Saudi Arabia
Brazil	Macau	Senegal
Canada	Malaysia	Singapore*
Chile	Mexico	South Korea
China	Monaco	Switzerland
Dominican Republic	New Zealand	Tunisia
European Union countries	Niger	Turkey
Gabon	Norway	United Arab Emirates
Hong Kong*	Oman	United States
Iceland	Peru

*Citizens of Hong Kong and Singapore can only stay in Morocco for up to 30 days.

Visa required

The short-term Morocco Visa, also known as a Morocco Tourist Visa, is issued to visa-required nationals who want to enter Morocco as a tourist. Tourist visas for Morocco can be issued for single or multiple entries and allow a maximum stay in Morocco for up to 90 days

The required documents for a Morocco visa application are the following:

The Morocco Visa Application Form.	Proof of accommodation.
Your passport and photocopies of your passport.	Proof of sufficient financial means.
Passport-size pictures.	Travel insurance.
Return flight ticket.	Proof of paid Morocco visa fee.

How to Apply for a Morocco Visa?

You must apply for a Morocco visa at a Moroccan diplomatic mission in your country. The exact application process changes depending on your country and the Moroccan representative office. However, it can be summed up as follows:

1. Make an appointment at the Morocco consulate or embassy.
2. Complete the Morocco visa application form.
3. Gather the required documents.
4. Submit them at the Moroccan embassy or consulate.
5. Pay the visa fee.
6. Wait for the Morocco visa to be processed.
7. Get the visa.

Only citizens of the following countries are eligible to obtain a Morocco visa online (ie. the Morocco Electronic Travel Authorization):

Republic of the Congo	Guinea	Mali
-----------------------	--------	------